

THE MUSIC WORLD.

A Short Resume of the Important Events That Ushered in the Month of Flowers.

THURSDAY EVENING'S CONCERT.

The Singing of Mrs. Nikisch and Other Interesting Points of the Two Performances.

TWO LECTURES BY AN ABLE CRITIC.

The Allegory Association and a Budget of News Items for Lovers of the Art.

Considerations of time and space preclude more than an outline review of this morning of the important musical happenings of the past week.

Among them the most prominent of course, were the Mozart Club's concert with the Boston Symphony Orchestra—and they were great concerts from every artistic point of view. That of Thursday evening presented the following excellent orchestra program: Schumann's... Symphony No. 1, in B-flat...

To be sure the orchestral classics were conspicuously absent; but who will say that the more modern romantic have not won a position that entitles them to a whole programme once in a while? Mr. Nikisch seemed to have an especial sympathy with such variety of romanticism above represented. The fresh, joyous flow of Schumann's "Spring" symphony, with its strong undercurrent of serious earnestness, was treated with affectionate and tender and the utmost attention to every shade of meaning.

Friday evening's concert was reviewed by the present writer yesterday morning. Little need be said now, except to repeat, for the benefit of readers, that the Mozart Club's superb singing of Verdi's Requiem was the crowning achievement of its seasons. The exceptional smoothness and effectiveness of the ensemble numbers, which varied through the Requiem, calls for high praise. The audience of 1,200 to 1,300 of the representative people they were most appreciative both in their applause and, more significantly, in the close attention with which each programme was followed to the very end.

The Lectures of Mr. Krebhiel. Although Mr. Krebhiel's lectures before Art Society last Monday and Tuesday were private affairs, and not properly open to serious public review, and, although the present writer was not able to be present at the lecture in Old City Hall on Wednesday evening, these important events cannot be permitted to pass without some notice.

As his writings so clearly show, Mr. Krebhiel is the master of his subject-matter in all its phases, considered historically, philosophically, technically or however you please. His writings are full of an excellent and varied amount of forcible and elegant diction. But the personal charm of the man himself, has rare quality and more than makes up for the sympathy with the changeable moods of his discourses—those who have listened to him learned on Monday evening last.

The lectures were instructive and inspiring in the highest degree. Art Society has added considerably to her laurels in introducing to this community such a man as H. E. Krebhiel.

The Marine Band concert at Old City Hall yesterday afternoon and evening need not be said. The band will readily rank with the best of the kind that have ever been heard. The music was a careful and intelligent conductor, evidently; but he needs to repress those noisy brasses somewhat and give the wood-wind a chance.

Miss Decca displayed a spruce organ of unusual quality, and her "Love Song" and "The Two Grenadiers" were the crown of her performance. Her vocalization was remarkably brilliant, and she showed, also, no little feeling in her simple ballad songs. Both band and singer were welcome to Pittsburgh at any time.

The Allegory Musical Association. An important concert, even in the present musical crush, will be that which closes the season of the Allegory Musical Association, to be given at Carnegie Hall next Tuesday evening. Under Mr. W. A. Lafferty's leadership, and with Mr. John A. Bell's accompaniments, the following attractive programme will be presented.

1. Hero and Leader. Dramatic Cantata. 2. Score de Ballet. 3. The Two Grenadiers. 4. The Song of the Nightingale. 5. The Song of the Lark. 6. The Song of the Dove. 7. The Song of the Sparrow. 8. The Song of the Swallow. 9. The Song of the Butterfly. 10. The Song of the Bee.

Crotchets and Quavers. There will be no rehearsal of the Mozart Club to-morrow evening, owing to Conductor McCollum's absence en route to the New York Festival.

MARCELLA SEMBRICH recently made a tremendous success in Moscow, where she appeared, for the one hundredth time in her life, in the part of Lucia. The centenary was celebrated with a shower of flowers and a laurel wreath with the figure 100 woven in silver numerals.

A BOOM FOR DALZELL.

The American Club Presents His Name for President of the STATE REPUBLICAN CLUB LEAGUE.

The First Meeting of the Organization in Its New Quarters.

AN ELOQUENT ADDRESS BY W. J. FORD

The American Club held its first meeting in its new clubhouse last night, and it proved a very interesting one. W. J. Ford made an eloquent address, speaking of the origin of the American Club and its patriotic tendencies. Referring to the portraits of noted Republicans on the walls, Mr. Ford continued:

"While we respect and honor the memories of those who feared not to bare their breasts to the foe, there are others living who in the interest of the perpetuation of Republicanism, I cannot but accord their highest respect. One of them is our ex-President, Harry S. Paul."

Mr. Ford here paid a high compliment to Mr. Paul, and then his portrait was exhibited amid great cheering and ordered hung upon the walls. Mr. Edwards made a graceful response in behalf of Mr. Paul. Colonel Reed presented (in behalf of the First Vice President W. P. Bennett) five volumes of Bates' History. Mr. Paul presented five volumes of Zeller's Encyclopedia, and J. P. Andrews accepted the gift on behalf of the club.
